

Women's Ministry

Cynthia L. Simmons has a heart for encouraging women in today's crazy, upside-down world. Cynthia taught for over thirty years as both a homeschool mother and Bible teacher. She peppers her speaking with fascinating historical vignettes while delivering a riveting exposition of God's word. Her presentations leave her audience uplifted and empowered. For women who want to grow deeper in their faith, she hosts Heart of the Matter Radio for women seeking the elegance of God's wisdom. To learn more, visit her website, www.clsimmons.com.

"Hearing Cynthia speak on numerous occasions puts a smile on my face every time! She always manages to capture the audience with her vivid delivery. Candy A. Westbrook, Motivational Speaker, Author, High Heels, Cleats and Helmets

"Cynthia radiates sincerity as she speaks and presents to her audience a genuine sense of place. She is authentic, approachable, and allows her listeners to relate to her subject... Her listeners love her quiet demeanor and gentle spirit." ~ Michael L. Anderson, Past President of Christian Authors Guild.

"A gifted orator who comes to the table fully equipped, Cynthia will effortlessly guide her audience through complicated material with ease and comprehension." Susan M. Watkins, Author

"Cynthia Simmons gave a splendid portrayal of Katie Luther, wife of Martin Luther. Her dress, mannerisms, and disc of the difference in our centuries was compelling. I even learned something – that Martin Luther loved for EVERY Christian to show the light of God through their celebrating the season with communities coming together with candle-lit trees, songs, dancing, and laughter." -Cindy Pope, writer and speaker.
